The End of Terror

The formal end of the European war—the hope that has sustained millions of the war-weary through more than five years—has come at last.

It marks the end of terror in Europe. There will continue to be hunger, misery, pestilence, and we may be sure there will continue to be violence while order is being re-established. But for the first time since Germany's plot against the Continent emerged in the previous decade, its intended victims can feel secure. Germans, themselves, are safe, except as they have earned punishment. The fear they feel is the fear of their own uneasy conscience in the presence of the dead.

For America, the end of terror in Europe does not signify the end of anything; it is only a milestone. The sacrifices we have made in the war against Germany and Italy have been matched in our war against Germany's ally in the Orient. We have borne the brunt of that war and will continue to be chiefly responsible for winning it. The Japanese terror in the Far East continues.

Since 1939, and particularly since Pearl Harbor, our nation has matured in its attitude toward war. We have worked, sacrificed and spent the lives of our best men as a duty to the ethics of our choice. We have learned to think about war as something more than a contest of strength. We find nothing to celebrate in the fact one war has been won and another is being waged successfully. Our thoughts are preoccupied with the means of making further wars impossible. Our prayers are for the wisdom to use our strength in ways that will protect all men from the terror of national violence.

Beyond Accounting

Futile as it is to try to measure anything so vast as the waste of war, there is no better way to understand what has happened.

The starting place is the apparent total of casualties. It is too soon for final figures, but the dead in Europe surely will not be less than they were at the end of 1918—more than 13,500,000 killed by enemy action or disease, according to the United States War department. To these must be added perhaps as many as 30,000,000 wounded in all degrees, millions of them in ways that will make them dependent as long as they live.

Civilian casualties, which never have been subject to estimate, are known to have been extremely high in Europe in this war. Besides the dead and maimed are the millions whose health has been undermined, or whose potentialities have been destroyed by the shock of wartime violence. War has been brought to civilian populations at last; that may become in the long view more important than anything else about World War II.

Who can measure mere material destruction—the disappearance of a landmark, the gaping bomb crater where a home stood, the loss of a public building, or the damage to a church? There has been more destruction in this war than in any previous war. Destruction has become a preoccupation of scientific warfare. One estimate already published in a business publication reasons that if the dollar cost of World War I was approximately 200 billion, the cost of World War II is at least a trillion. Such figures are arbitrary. It would be as reasonable to say that if the other war cost half a trillion, this one has cost five times as much, or two and a half trillion.

Figures only can suggest, not measure, the waste of war. If all of the cost could be recaptured and turned to good account, civilization could flourish on the added resources for half a century.

Russia Has Something to Lose

It is one of the cold, uncomfortable facts of international relations as revealed in reactions to Russian attitudes on such matters as the Polish issue that a question mark now hangs over the whole subject of Russian foreign policy.

If any of the other governments involved in matters concerning either the war, or postwar security had chosen to go as far out of their way to disturb the confidence of their associates, as Russia has gone, particularly in its high-handed attitude toward Poland, it is not to be imagined that the Soviet Union would fail to suspect a deliberate motive. In short, it is not to be imagined that Russian diplomacy accidentally has given the impression recently that Russia does not care what other governments think, but is determined to have its way with or without their approval.

The impression has been given with some special purpose in mind. It is possible to imagine half a dozen, none of them in harmony with the ideal of international security by means of closer understanding and cooperation. The fact is, as all Russians well know, that they had one of history's greatest chances to create a mood of international concord at San Francisco; they had made themselves the focus of world interest by their deeds in the war. Those chose, however, to mix international concord with attitudes, methods and concurrent actions, such as their treatment of the delegation of Poles sent to carry out Premier Stalin's pledge at Yalta, which signify plainly that they have something more than concord in mind.

Obviously, this has been done deliberately. If pursued far enough, it can destroy hope in cooperative security. Perhaps that is Russia's intention. It is dangerously close right now to Russia's effect—close enough to suggest that whatever may be accomplished theoretically at San Francisco could be undone practically by things that weren't on the agenda.

One More Decartion

Notwithstanding all the decorations available in this war, yet another is needed. It should be some sort of simple but easily recognizable honorable discharge button for the 12 million men and women who, for more than three years at much inconvenience and often financial cost, have served faithfully as civilian defense workers.

No enemy plane has reached our shores to justify their efforts. Often they have been abused for interfering with our whims, and very rarely have they been thanked by any of us for whose safety they served. If Germans or Japs really had come, we should have been extremely grateful for the organization these volunteers perfected. Their will and their effort were no less because our mainland escaped bombing. A little plastic button, or some equivalent insignia identifying those who only stood and waited, seems to be indicated.

Valuable Proteins Present In Yeast

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THERE has been much discussion about the nutrition of the future. Some people even go so far as talking about doing all right by just taking a few concentrated food tablets each day.

At present, however, it would appear that the best state of nutrition can be maintained by the utilization of a well-balanced diet, that is, one which contains foods supplying all of the necessary food parts, such as proteins, minerals, vitamins, starches, sugars, and fats.

If concentrated foods are to be used in the future, the basis of these foods might well be yeast. Weight for weight, it has been stated that yeast is the most nutritious foodstuff known, although at present yeast is not taken in any quantity as food. Yeast contains some 50 to 60 per cent of protein, far more than any animal source, such as meat or eggs contains and, in addition, this protein is as good as the protein of milk.

Amino Acids
As you may know, proteins are made up of substances known as amino acids, ten of which have been shown to be necessary for the growth and the repair of tissues. The value of any protein is measured on the basis of the number and amount of the ten necessary amino acids which it contains.

The protein of milk is valuable, as is also the protein of yeast, because of the number and the amounts of amino acids contained in them. Yeast contains liberal amounts of seven of the ten necessary amino acids. In addition, it is an excellent source of B-complex vitamins. It also has such minerals as potassium phosphate and iron. A sugar known as glycogen and such fatty substances as ergosterol and lecithin are also present in yeast.

If yeast is exposed to ultraviolet light, the ergosterol present in the yeast is changed into vitamin D. Thus, as little as one-fifth of a gram of irradiated yeast would be sufficient to prevent rickets in a young infant. There are fifteen grams in an ounce.

The amount of vitamin B-1, which is a part of the B-complex, varies in different kinds of yeast. Brewer's yeast is one of the best sources of this vitamin. One hundred grams of Brewer's yeast or about 3½ ounces may contain as much as 25 milligrams of vitamin B-1 and the average man requires only about two to three milligrams of vitamin B-1 daily. A milligram is about 1-25 of the weight of an average grain of rice. Yeast is the richest known source of vitamin B-6, pantothenic acid and biotin which are also parts of the vitamin B-complex.

Yeast by itself is not tasty, and no one would like to try to survive on a diet made up largely of yeast. However, the presence in yeast of such large amounts of good protein, of so many valuable vitamins and minerals, may indicate the directions of its usefulness in times to come.

Yeast by itself is not tasty, and no one would like to try to survive on a diet made up largely of yeast. However, the presence in yeast of such large amounts of good protein, of so many valuable vitamins and minerals, may indicate the directions of its usefulness in times to come.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
O. R.:—I am a young girl of twenty. Due to a recent illness I lost a lot of sleep. I now have circles under my eyes. What can I do about it?

Answer:—The proper thing for you to do is to get plenty of rest and sleep. There is no other treatment for this condition.

The Golden Eagle

THE AMERICAN HOUSE
By Virginia Chase

XXIV
EARLY the next morning my father took Mr. Cutter back to the Insane Asylum from whence he had come. "He was supposed to be harmless," he had explained. When his case came up in Trustee meeting the doctors said he could be discharged if there was anyone to take the responsibility for him. I didn't see a man kept in an institution just for the lack of a case to go to.

"Of course you couldn't," my mother said warmly. She was feeling very benevolent. We were at home.

One afternoon, the members of the Sidewalk Society called up to talk about the fire. "Yes, it's unfortunate," my mother said. "But secretly she was as relieved as we were. Through no fault of our own the American House was in flames. It had been insured for $3,500."

The day after the fire we girls spent every spare minute on the steps of the Town Hall, facing the fire which were still hot and smoldering. Time and time again we shut our eyes and opened them. We could never get over the surprise of it. The whole village seemed lighter, as though a shadow had been lifted. In place of the American House we saw only a black yard, a stable, and a stretch of the field to the bay.

"I can't believe it's gone," Sue kept saying. Her voice trembled. "It had like the American House better than any of us. She had a chance to run things there."

"It's gone all right," Julia told her. "And it's a good thing, too." Julia was, as always, practical. But she was sober, too.

Perhaps she felt as I did. Though I wanted to live at home, I didn't want to lose the American House entirely. I wanted to be able to go in it at any time. To listen to the drummers in the office. To smell Mrs. Guptill's bread from the top of the kitchen stairs while I waited for Jay. To get my hands on the register whenever I felt like it. Once in a while I might even want to sit on the well curb in the cellar. Of course, there was still the stable.

On the second day we could go close up to the ruins. From there we could pick out familiar objects. The office stove, with all its covers missing. The bathtub, black and dented. A plant pot, holding a charred stub that had once been my mother's geranium. One of the telephones, now only a crank, a mouthpiece, and a tangle of wires. Broken pipes, lying in heaps, like black straws. Radiators, already rusting. The furnace, half buried, its arrow on zero.

There was something disturbing about seeing these things—once decent, orderly—now stripped and littered, right out in the face and said, flourishing a piece of paper. "You, too, Lucy."

It was a check from the insurance company. A check for $2500. It was the first time I had ever seen such a figure outside of an arithmetic.

"Just think what that will buy," he gloated.

My mother reached out an insistent hand. "It won't buy one thing she told him. 'It will go right in the bank and stay there.'"

What Is Wrong
When Prayer Fails?

Thirty years ago, in Forbidden Tibet, behind the highest mountains in the world, a young Englishman named Edwin J. Dingle found the answer to this question. A great hystic opened his eyes. A great change came over him. He realized the strange Power that Knowledge gives.

That Power, he says, can transform the life of anyone. Questions, whatever they are, can be answered. The problems of health, death, poverty and wrong, can be solved.

In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth too, as well as a world-wide professional recognition. Thirty years ago, he was sick as a man could be and live. Once his coffin was bought. Years of almost continuous tropical fevers, broken bones, near blindness, privation and danger had made a human wreck of him, physically and mentally.

He was about to be sent back to England to die, when a strange message came—"They are waiting for you in Tibet." He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the greatest mystic he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants everyone to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him.

Within ten years, he was able to retire to this country with a fortune. He had been honored by fellowships in the World's leading geographical societies, for his work as a geographer. And today, 30 years later, he is still so athletic, capable of so much work, so young in appearance, it is hard to believe he has lived so long.

As a first step in their progress toward the Power that Knowledge gives, Mr. Dingle wants to send to readers of this paper a 9,000-word treatise. He says the time has come for it to be released to the Western World, and offers to send it, free of cost or obligation, to sincere readers of this notice. For your free copy, address: The Institute of Mental-physiology, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. S-128, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.

Vera Loveland Bride Of Corp. Dale Cook

Miss Vera Loveland became the bride of Technician Fifth Class Dale Cook at 4 p. m. Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Loveland of Western Reserve rd., Canfield.

The home was beautifully decorated with tulips, and palms and ferns were banded before the candle-lighted improvised altar.

Mrs. Willard P. Barker played the wedding music, which included "To a Wild Rose," "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly" and the Bridal chorus from Lohengrin.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was costumed in a creation of white marquisette and she wore a finger tip veil. She carried a bouquet of white and red carnations.

Miss Doris Loveland, maid of honor, sister of the bride, wore a pink gown, modeled like the bride's, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Kenneth Cook, the groom's brother, was best man.

The ushers were Miss Sarah Loveland, the bride's sister, and Pfc. Paul R. Cook, the groom's brother, home on furlough after serving 18 months in Iceland.

Mrs. Loveland wore a light blue dress with a corsage of pink carnations and Mrs. Cook wore a navy and white ensemble with a corsage of red rose buds and white carnations.

Large Women Can Wear Gay Colors

By ALICIA HART

Formula for chic for the large woman might well be written with three words: "Nail everything down." It's a good one to remember this spring when fashion breaks out in a rash of capes, drapery, stoles, and sashes.

They're fine for the woman who is as slim as a bean, but not for the Junoesque charmer who needs to stick to straight lines and simple effects.

The large woman should, however, disregard the ancient taboo which says that she can't wear vivid colors. She can, and in electrifying combinations, worn as high-handedly as she pleases.

But she must be careful to assemble her effects skillfully and hew to the lines of whittled-down simplicity.

Postwar Army of 500,000 Men Is War Office Plan

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 8.—Congressmen today disclosed War department plans for a peacetime standing army of about 500,000 men backed up by an active reserve of 4,000,000.

Outlined behind closed doors to the house military committee, the program contemplates, the committee members said, that congress will enact a compulsory peacetime draft to provide the reserve strength.

A standing, or professional, postwar army of 500,000 men would compare with an estimated 325,000 in 1940.

The 4,000,000 reserves, committee members said, would include an estimated 400,000 to 500,000 National Guardmen and Officers Reserve corps members and 3,500,000 youths trained for one year in the regular army and assigned to active reserve status.

Committeemen estimated about 500,000 would be trained each year and the reserve built up to its peak strength over a period of years.

They emphasized that the program is contingent on enactment of compulsory peacetime military training.

End Of German War Assures World Series, Rebirth Of Races

Return Of Some Veterans Expected Late In Season; All-Star Game May Be On

By JACK HAND

Surrender day means baseball will play its World Series this fall and may reinstate its All-Star game but no great influx of returning G. I. athletes is to be expected.

Of about 500 major league players now on the National defense service lists, a majority are believed overseas, many in the Pacific theatre. War department estimates are that more than 12 months may be required to return the European armies to this nation, giving little hope for any familiar names returning to the 1945 box scores.

After three weeks of play, both circuits appear to be in such delicate balance that re-appearance of a star player in the lineup of any team could make it a pennant contender. The 1944 experience of Dick Wakefield and the Detroit Tigers was proof enough it could happen.

Giants, Sox The Surprises
The New York Giants and Chicago White Sox were the big surprises of the new season but the intersectional tests were just beginning. Chicago polished off some unfinished business with Cleveland today.

Cincinnati provides the opposition for the Giants tonight at the Polo grounds.

Recently scheduled benefit games for the July 9-11 period, may prevent any All-Star tilt this season although Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler has indicated he will try to arrange a new date.

Presidents Ford Frick and Will Harridge of the majors had cancelled the All-Stars game and left the World Series dependent on the status of the war at a winter meeting with ODT chieftains.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Athletic leaders waited expectantly today for definite government word affecting sports as the result of Germany's unconditional surrender.

They were eager to learn first when the racing ban will be lifted, and next, if the war department will take action on congressional contentions that 4-F professional athletes have been discriminated against in the draft.

Government officials in positions to know what plans are being made remained silent about racing, but turf spokesmen said they had learned the ban will be removed on or about V-E day.

Still 4-F Probe On
The War department has been investigating for some time complaints that professional athletes who could not meet physical requirements were being inducted into service.

An announcement was expected yesterday but the War department said "it still is being asked. You'll just have to coast along until it's ready."

Meanwhile, a possibility developed of major league baseball dedicating its doubleheaders next Sunday to the victory over Germany.

Baseball men felt that dedication of Sunday's games would be an appropriate manner in which to celebrate the knockout of Germany, and A. B. (Happy) Chandler, commissioner-elect, said he would take the matter up with other leaders in the sport.

BELL FAVORITE IN CLASH WITH HUNTER IN ARENA CLASSIC

Winner Goes Against Doyle In Later Los Angeles Bout For Title

CLEVELAND, May 8.—Tommy Bell reigns as an 8 to 5 favorite to take the measure of Chuck Hunter at the Arena Wednesday night when the two hard-hitting mitts clash in the first of a two-bout elimination tournament designed to produce a "logical" challenger for Freddie Cochrane and his welterweight crown.

The winner of Wednesday's scrap goes against Jimmy Doyle of Los Angeles June 7 and the victor of this bout will assume the challenger's role in the titular combat to be held at the Stadium late in July.

A rather pretentious supporting card goes to make up the under-neath of Wednesday's card. Leroy Jackson, highly-touted local featherweight, and Victor Flores, Mexican 126-pound champ, meet in the 6-round semi-final.

Another Mexican, Nava Esparza, who holds the 135-pound title of Mexico, makes his local debut in an 8-canto fray against Vic Jade, former Cleveland who has earned his ring spurs around New York.

Interest In Preliminary
Considerable interest is being manifested in a "special" 6-stanza boxing between Leo Garrett and Johnny Virgo, a pair of lightweights who waged two of the most sensational brawls ever witnessed here. Each holds a split decision over the other and despite the fact that their embroglio is only a preliminary there is an enormous amount of wagering on the outcome of the encounter.

It is the plan of Matchmaker Larry Atkins to reward the winner of the semi-final with a main event here on May 23 with Phil Terranova, former ruler of the featherweight division.

Two four-rounders, featuring local mitts, completes the 40-stanza program.

OWNERS HOPE FOR FULL TIME RACING WHEN BAN IS LIFTED
Say Three-Day Schedule Is Harder On Horses Than Fuller Schedule

By FRED HAYDEN

NEW YORK, May 8.—Less affluent owners of small racing stables hope that when the sport finally returns, it will be on the old full-time basis and not three days a week. To many, a parttime schedule might prove of little value.

Owners of big stables including stake horses probably would be affected little, but the less pecunious turfmen, who for months have been beset with various problems, would get few opportunities to win a purse or part of one. Cheaper grade performers would be lucky to get a chance to run once every few weeks.

But the animals would have to be kept razor-sharp just the same.

Had One Trial
A situation such as developed at Tropical Park, Florida, just before the Jan. 3 sluttish night looms. The last nine days of that session, even with nine-race programs six days a week, saw so many horses trying to "get in" that a record number had to be excluded daily. A three-day schedule, or even four, could have the same effect—supply exceeding the demand.

When it was announced at Mexico City early in March that there would be four days racing instead of three each week, horsemen there became more cheerful. Previously, many horses had remained inactive for weeks at a time.

Indians Keep Trying
CHICAGO, May 8.—Weather permitting, the Cleveland Indians today will try to keep the Chicago White Sox from winning a twice postponed series finale and their fourth-straight game.

Charles (Red) Emburge, who has tossed two tight but losing games, and Orval Grove were to pitch. Originally scheduled last Friday, the game was postponed until yesterday when it was rained out.

Schott Beats Jimmy Bell
BALTIMORE, May 8.—Freddie Schott, 208, of Akron, O., last night won a unanimous 10-round decision over Jimmy Bell, 183, of Washington, the 39th consecutive victory for the 18-year-old Buckeye fighter.

Ringsiders, however, were far from unanimous agreement on the decision, as Bell carried the fight to his hefty rival much of the way. Schott got the edge with two knockdowns, one for an eight count in the second and the other in the final 10th.

OLMO, CUCCINELLO LEAD BIG LEAGUE POWERS AT PLATE
Surprising Rise of 2 New Leaders Is Marked In Latest Ranking

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, May 8.—Two surprise package hitters, Louis Olmo of Brooklyn and Tony Cuccinello of the Chicago White Sox, led the major league batsmen today at the end of the first three weeks of competition.

Olmo picked up 123 points for himself by collecting eight hits in nine at bats against the Phillies Sunday, boosting his average from .286 to a lofty .409. Cuccinello, who spent most of his 15 big league years in the National loop, had a .395 mark for 11 games.

FEW SPORTS EVENTS TO BE CALLED OFF
Baseball, Colleges Will Go Through Regular Sates As Usual Today

BY TED MEIER
NEW YORK, May 8.—Few sports events were expected to be called off today because of Germany's surrender.

Unlike D-day 11 months ago when most race tracks closed and baseball games and prize fights were postponed, the usual Tuesday lost of major and minor league baseball games, college contests and fights were to be held as scheduled.

News of the end of the European war caused cancellation of the Julie Port-Freddy Russo fight at Newark, N. J., and postponement of an Albany at Utica Eastern league baseball game, but except where inclement weather interfered, all other scheduled games and bouts were held yesterday and last night.

Three major league tilts were carded today at Chicago, St. Louis and New York with full schedules in the International, American Association, Eastern, Southern Association, Pacific Coast league, the Pony, Interstate, Piedmont, Carolina, and the smaller circuits. In some cases doubleheaders were carded, three of them in the International loop.

Will Harridge, president of the American league, expressed the reaction of all sports leaders in these words "We are all greatly relieved with announcement of V-E day, which we have long awaited, and now look forward to total victory which will only come with successful conclusion of the war in the Pacific."

Stark Baseball To Start
CANTON, May 8.—Canton McKinley, Alliance, Campbell Memorial, Canton Township and Canton Timken won opening round games yesterday of the Canton District Class A scholastic baseball tournament. Results were: McKinley 6, Youngstown East 3; Alliance 7, Stowe 3; Campbell 6, Canton Lehman 4; Timken 6, Wooster 3; Warren forfeited to Canton Township.

Salem A. C. To Practice

End Of German War Assures World Series, Rebirth Of Races

Return Of Some Veterans Expected Late In Season; All-Star Game May Be On

By JACK HAND
Surrender day means baseball will play its World Series this fall and may reinstate its All-Star game but not great influx of returning G. I. athletes is to be expected.

Of about 500 major leaguers now on the National defense service lists, a majority are believed overseas, many in the Pacific theatre. War department estimates are that more than 12 months may be required to return the European armies to this nation, giving little hope for any familiar names returning to the 1945 box scores.

After three weeks of play, both circuits appear to be in such delicate balance that re-appearance of a star player in the lineup of any team could make it a pennant contender. The 1944 experience of Dick Wakefield and the Detroit Tigers was proof enough it could happen.

Giants, Sox The Surprises
The New York Giants and Chicago White Sox were the big surprises of the new season but the interaction tests were just beginning. Chicago polished off some unfinished business with Cleveland today.

Cincinnati provides the opposition for the Giants tonight at the Polo grounds.

Recently scheduled benefit games for the July 9-11 period, may prevent any All-Star tilt this season although Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler has indicated he will try to arrange a new date.

Presidents Ford Frick and Will Harridge of the majors had cancelled the All-Stars game and left the World Series dependent on the status of the war at a winter meeting with ODT chieftains.

BELL FAVORITE IN CLASH WITH HUNTER IN ARENA CLASSIC

Winner Goes Against Doyle In Later Los Angeles Bout For Title

CLEVELAND, May 8.—Tommy Bell reigns as an 8 to 5 favorite to take the measure of Chuck Hunter at the Arena Wednesday night when the two hard-hitting mittsters clash in the first of a two-bout elimination tournament designed to produce a "logical" challenger for Freddie Cochrane and his welterweight crown.

The winner of Wednesday's scrap goes against Jimmy Doyle of Los Angeles June 7 and the victor of this bout will assume the challenger's role in the titular combat to be held at the Stadium late in July.

A rather pretentious supporting card goes to make up the under-nephth of Wednesday's card. Leroy Jackson, highly-touted local featherweight, and Victor Flores, Mexican 126-pound champ, meet in the 8-round semi-final.

Another Mexican, Nava Esparza, who holds the 135-pound title of Mexico, makes his local debut in an 8-ranto fray against Vic Jade, former Cleveland who has earned his ring surs around New York.

Interest In Preliminary
Considerable interest is being manifest in a "special" 6-stanza shindig between Leo Garrett and Johnny Virgo, a pair of lightweights who waged two of the most sensational brawls ever witnessed here. Each holds a split decision over the other and despite the fact that their embroglio is only a preliminary there is an enormous amount of wagering on the outcome of the encounter.

It is the plan of Matchmaker Larry Atkins to reward the winner of the semi-final with a main event here on May 23 with Phil Terranova, former ruler of the featherweight division.

Two four-rounders, featuring local mittsters, completes the 40-stanza program.

OWNERS HOPE FOR FULL TIME RACING WHEN BAN IS LIFTED

Say Three-Day Schedule Is Harder On Horses Than Fuller Schedule

By FRED HAYDEN
NEW YORK, May 8.—Less affluent owners of small racing stables hope that when the sport finally returns, it will be on the old full-time basis and not three days a week. To many, a parttime schedule might prove of little value.

Owners of big stables including stake horses probably would be affected little, but the less pecunious turfmen, who for months have been beset with various problems, would get few opportunities to win a purse or part of one. Cheaper grade performers would be lucky to get a chance to run once every few weeks, with too many horses around for too few races. But the animals would have to be kept razor-sharp just the same.

Had One Trial
A situation such as developed at Tropical park, Florida, just before the Jan. 2 shutdown, might loom. The last nine days of that season, even with nine-race programs six days a week, saw so many horses trying to "get in" that a record number had to be excluded daily. A three-day schedule, or even four, could have the same effect—supply exceeding the demand.

When it was announced at Mexico City early in March that there would be four days racing instead of three each week, horsemen there became more cheerful. Previously, many horses had remained inactive for weeks at a time.

Indians Keep Trying

CHICAGO, May 8.—Weather permitting, the Cleveland Indians today will try to keep the Chicago White Sox from winning a twice postponed series finale and their fourth-straight game.

Charles (Red) Embree, who has tossed two tight but losing games, and Orval Grove were to pitch. Originally scheduled last Friday, the game was postponed until yesterday when it was rained out.

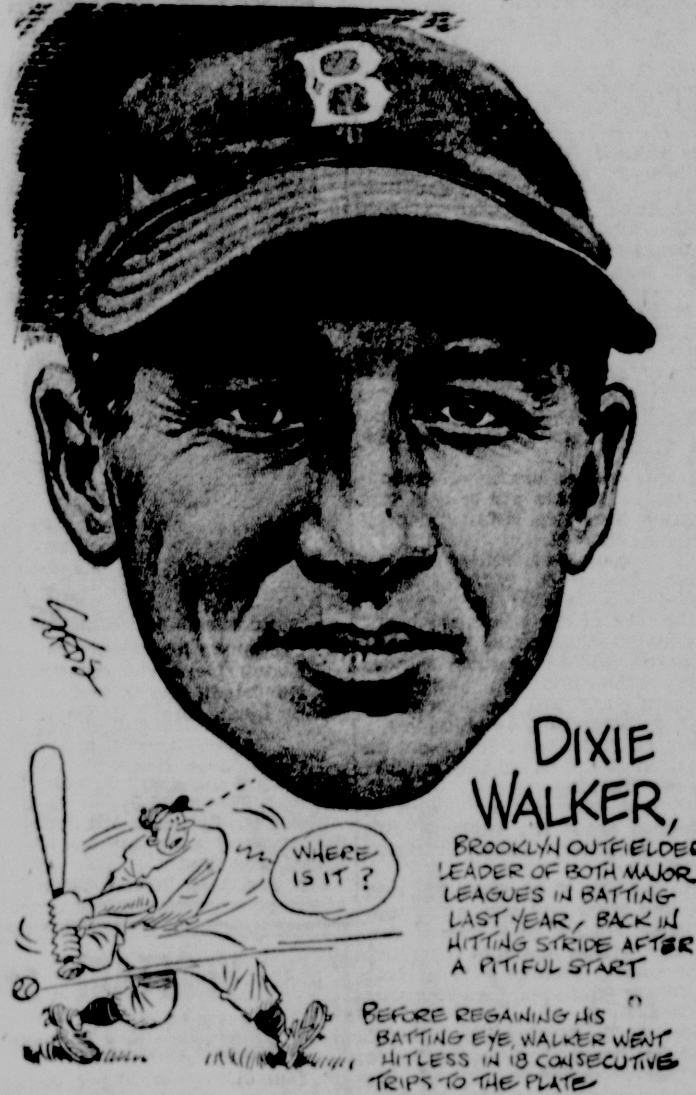

Take Joe DiMaggio, Tommy Henrich and Joe Gordon—why they're still fairly young men with a lot of years left. They're keeping in shape. They'll be ready to go when this mess is over.

"All the Yanks will need to be as great a ball club as before the war are a couple of good pitchers to step in there for fellows like Lefty Gomez and Red Ruffing."

"And they have these pitchers coming up—you can bet on that. Young Joe Page and Floyd Bevens, for example, are real comers."

"The Yankee monopoly on American League pennants isn't broken—the boys are just taking time out while they fight a war."

HEMSLEY EXPECTS YANKS TO RETAIN PRE-WAR POWERS

Says Browns, Tigers Now Playing On War Time; Will Lose Edge

By WILL GRIMSLEY
MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Say, you Browns, Tigers, et al., of the American League—you'd better enjoy that pennant fever while you can.

You're playing on "borrowed time," says veteran catcher Rolfe Hemsley, lately of the New York Yankees but now doing his tagging for the U. S. Navy.

Don't kid yourself, the war has leveled competition in the league now," asserts the graying 38-year-old receiver. "But just as soon as the war is over the Yankees will be right up there on top again with the other clubs."

"There's no reason they shouldn't be as powerful an outfit as they ever were."

Hemsley's remarks were made during a practice session of the Memphis Naval Air Technical Training Center baseball team, to which the hefty catcher is now lending his talents.

The Ohio native, who joined the Yanks in 1942 after several years with Cleveland and a stopover at Cincinnati, entered the Navy last year.

"Remember the Yankees have a championship ball club in the service now," says Hemsley, "and they're not all old fellows who won't have much left when they return."

"Take Joe DiMaggio, Tommy Henrich and Joe Gordon—why they're still fairly young men with a lot of years left. They're keeping in shape. They'll be ready to go when this mess is over."

"All the Yanks will need to be as great a ball club as before the war are a couple of good pitchers to step in there for fellows like Lefty Gomez and Red Ruffing."

"And they have these pitchers coming up—you can bet on that. Young Joe Page and Floyd Bevens, for example, are real comers."

Surprising Rise of 2 New Leaders Is Marked In Latest Ranking

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, May 8.—Two surprise package hitters, Louis Olmo of Brooklyn and Tony Cuccinello of the Chicago White Sox, led the major league batsmen today at the end of the first three weeks of competition.

Olmo picked up 123 points for himself by collecting eight hits in nine at bats against the Phillies Sunday, boosting his average from .286 to a lofty .409. Cuccinello, who spent most of his 15 big league years in the National loop, had a .395 mark for 11 games.

FEW SPORTS EVENTS TO BE CALLED OFF

Baseball, Colleges Will Go Through Regular Schedules As Usual Today

BY TED MEIER
NEW YORK, May 8.—Few sports events were expected to be called off today because of Germany's surrender.

Unlike D-day 11 months ago when most race tracks closed and baseball games and prize fights were postponed, the usual Tuesday lost of major and minor league baseball games, college contests and fights were to be held as scheduled.

News of the end of the European war caused cancellation of the Julie Bort-Fred Russo fight at Newark, N. J., and postponement of an Albany at Utica Eastern league baseball game, but except where inclement weather interfered, all other scheduled games and bouts were held yesterday and last night.

Minors Will Play
Three major league tilts were called today at Chicago, St. Louis and New York with full schedules in the International, American Association, Eastern, Southern Association, Pacific Coast league, the Pony, Interstate, Piedmont, Carolina, and the smaller circuits. In some cases, doubleheaders were called, three of them in the International loop.

Will Harridge, president of the American league, expressed the reaction of all sports leaders in these words "We are all greatly relieved with announcement of V-E day, which we have long awaited, and now look forward to total victory which will only come with successful conclusion of the war in the Pacific."

WARD OF THANKS
We express in this manner our sincere thanks to all friends and neighbors for kindnesses shown and to Rev. L. U. Bennett, those who donated cars and all who helped in any way during the loss of our dear husband and father,
MRS. MOLLIE ADAMS

IN MEMORIAM
In sad and loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother,
Isadore Freeman, who passed away two years ago today, May 8, 1943.
A precious one has gone to rest,
A voice we loved is still;
A place is vacant in our homes
Which this world can never fill.

Attention, Parents!

Give your boy an early business training and teach him the value of money by earning his own.
A dollar earned will be more wisely spent than a dollar handed out as an allowance.
A Salem News Carrier Route
will do much to accomplish this.
There will be several openings in the next few weeks, due to older carriers changing jobs at the close of the school year.
If you should like your boy to have a Salem News Carrier Route, and want complete information how your boy will earn his own money,

Phone 4601

and we will call at your home and explain completely how he may become a successful newspaper carrier.

Dairy Payments Being Made For First Quarter

Clifford F. Shaw, chairman of the Columbiana county AAA, announced today that the AAA is making payments on dairy production for the months of January, February and March at the rate of 70 cents per hundredweight on whole milk and 11 cents a pound on butterfat.

He emphasized that farmers must file applications no later than May 30 in order to be eligible for payment. To date 1,018 applications for payment based on dairy production in January, February and March have been received. One thousand three hundred and fifty applications were filed in the previous payment period.

There are approximately 2,000,000 retail stores in the United States.

Buy Business Properties

The two-story frame and brick buildings at 115-129 S. Broadway, with a frontage of 60 feet, have been sold to Marjorie K. and N. C. Hunt, doing business as C. B. Hunt & Son, for investment.

This property, consisting of four small store rooms on the ground floors and business offices on the second floors, was owned by the late Ralph W. Campbell, who sold it to R. M. Atkinson in 1927. It is on the west side of Broadway, just south of the Broadway-Lease drug store building.

officers and then studied the floor. Friedeburg looked out the windows. Only Jodi, his bald head gleaming beneath naked electric light bulbs, looked the American and British commanders in the face.

Again there was a moment of heavy silence.

Then Eisenhower spoke. He was brief and terse as always. His voice was cold and stern. His steel blue eyes were hard.

In a few clipped sentences, he made it plain that Germany was a defeated nation and that henceforth orders to the German people would come from the Allies. He said they would be obeyed.

Then the Germans filed out. It was over.

Nazi Germany has ceased to exist. The war had ended.

Two Days of Negotiations

The signatures of the document of surrender climaxed two days of negotiations in the cathedral city, scene of many dramatic events in European history. Possibly what was born here today will be known as the "Peace of Reims."

Also seated with the signatories were Maj. Gen. Sir Frederick E. Morgan, SHAEF deputy chief of staff; Capt. Harry E. Butcher, Eisenhower's naval aide; Adm. Sir Harry Burroughs, commander of Allied naval forces; Lt. Gen. Chieroff of the Red army; Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, commander of the United States Strategic Air Forces in Europe; Air Marshal Sir James M. Robb, chief of the SHAEF air staff; Maj. Gen. H. R. Bull, assistant chief of staff; and Col. Ivan Zerkovitch of the Red army.

The Allied representatives sat along the side of the table nearest the wall and along its right end. Facing them across the black table were Jodi and Friedeburg and Maj. William Oxenius, Jodi's aide. Behind the Germans stood Maj. Gen. K. W. D. Strong, chief of SHAEF intelligence, who acted as interpreter.

Correspondents were ushered into the war room upon receiving word of the agreement upon final terms.

Most of the Allied officers entered the room at 2:29 a. m. Lt. Gen. Bedell Smith followed five minutes later. The strain of the climactic months of the war was evident in his serious countenance.

No One Smiled

There was another wait of five minutes. Then Jodi, in a grey-green uniform and silver trim of the Wehrmacht officer, strode in with the blue-clad Friedeburg.

Jodi wore his Knight of the Iron Cross decoration. Friedeburg's highest military decorations were likewise on display.

Neither seemed crestfallen. They moved slowly but resolutely to the table, there standing at attention. The Allied officers bowed stiffly. Everyone's visage—ally or enemy—was rigid. Not a trace of a smile appeared on any face.

"There are four copies," Gen. Smith remarked dryly, "to be signed."

Gen. Jodi was the first to put his name on the quadruplicate document at 2:41 a. m. Copies were passed across to be signed by General Ivan Susloparov of the Red army, Smith of SHAEF and Francois sevez of France in that order.

The terms of the naval agreement which were signed by Adm. Burroughs and the terms of the and air disarmament were signed by Smith and presented to the Germans to be carried out.

It was 2:45 a. m. the ink of the signatures still was damp. Then Jodi spoke, beseeching "generosity" of the Allied conquerors.

BODY OF HITLER REPORTED FOUND

By NED NORDNESS

WITH THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY, May 8.—Col. Anatoly Pilugin, war correspondent of Tass, official Soviet news agency, has said a Russian general had stated that the body of a man identified as Adolf Hitler had been found in the ruins of Berlin.

The Russian general was not named.

During a meeting two days ago between Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky of the Second White Russian army, Russian officers asked Pilugin, who is attached to the British Second army as a war correspondent, whether the British believed Hitler was dead or alive.

Pilugin said he replied there was a mixed opinion, but that the Russian general, whose identity he did not disclose, stated that the Russians had found in Berlin the bullet-torn and battered body of a man identified as Hitler.

The War Today..

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

V-E DAY to the victorious Allies must be in its essence just a pause on the way to complete our task of crushing the forces of evil which Hitler let loose, when he started out to enslave the world.

We still have two Herculean tasks to perform—to do to Nazidom's Japanese ally what we've done to the Reich, and to impose on the Germans a punishment which will be just but which will be so stern that mankind never will forget it.

The war guilty—who run into thousands—should be given the limit of the law and without waste of time. We want no long drawn out public trials, but such expeditious justice as military courts would give.

We should be allowing our passions to rule our minds if we placed the brand on the brow of every German. But we mustn't allow ourselves to be swayed by the soft-voiced words of repentance which now are being poured out by the surrendering Goethe officials. It's only a matter of days since we uncovered some of the most awful of the German atrocities—all set in motion by Hitler and his lieutenants.

We may be sure the Germans still are goose-stepping mentally. Did you ever see a force of Hitler's death's head guards goosestep? I have—and the awful finality of the crash of their hobnails on the pavement is something to remember. It means war.

The Japanese propagandists are trying to dissociate their country from the defeated Nazidom. They're looking forward to the day when they also will be making unconditional surrender, and they're trying to avoid trouble with Russia. The Japs say they never expected any help from Germany—but they lie for it was only when they felt sure Hitler was winning the European war hands down that they rushed in and stabbed Uncle Sam in the back. Nippon long had plotted this assault against the Western powers, so that she could rule the Orient.

The American-British partnership is losing no time in transferring striking power from conquered Germany to the Pacific. Word that a great Allied fighting machine from Europe is beginning to roll out towards Japan will lead news to the Yankee fighting men already there for they have had fears that the home-front might weaken when the European war was over and make a compromise peace with the Japs.

Our men in the Pacific, who have been experiencing the atrocities of the savages of the Rising Sun, can't want any compromise. They are determined to smash the Japanese.

As the Washington war office announced at the weekend, the United States is moving about 6,000 picked troops out to the Pacific. These will be in addition to several hundred thousand British and Australian forces already in action. There will be massed airforces—perhaps even greater than Europe has known—and a vast American-British naval fleet.

The way things look now it's a fair guess that within a few months we shall be invading the Japanese mainland—and that will be the wedge which will split the log in two. This will mean the greatest amphibious operation in history—an assault far exceeding in its intensity the D-day on the beaches of Normandy—but the Allied experts are sure it can be done. Meantime the Mikado's domains are going to be torn by a terrific air assault getting under way.

TWO AP MEN WIN PULITZER AWARDS

NEW YORK, May 8.—Two Associated Press staff members on war assignments have been awarded 1944 Pulitzer prize awards.

Big affable Harold V. (Hal) Boyle, AP war correspondent, won the Distinguished correspondence award of $500 for his day-by-day story during 1944 of the American foot soldier in the battle for Europe.

Joe Rosenthal, AP photographer, was honored for his inspiring picture of Marines raising the Stars and Stripes on Iwo Jima. The historic picture, taken for the War-time Still Picture pool, was made in 1945—technically too late for a 1944 prize—but exception was made for "this distinguished example," the announcement said.

The prize for the most distinguished novel of 1944 went to John Hershey for "A Bell For Adano," and Mary Chase's "Harvey" was cited as the best original American play.

ENEMY HOLDOUT GARRISON QUILTS; YANKS IN PRAGUE

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, May 8.—Nazi holdouts in Bohemia surrendered unconditionally today, the Czech-controlled Prague radio said, sounding on V-E day the death rattle of the once mighty army which set out almost six years ago to conquer the world.

Their capitulation saved them from swift punishment by Gen. George S. Patton's Third army, which had driven northeast from captured Pilsen to the outskirts of the Czech capital, and by three Russian armies driving toward the same goal from the north and east.

The patriot broadcast said Nazi Gen. Ferdinand Von Schoerner, commander in Bohemia and Moravia, signed unconditional surrender terms at 1:30 a. m. (battle-front time) and that units were to "cease fire" as soon as they received word of the capitulation.

Earlier the partisans said U. S. staff officers had made contact with them, bringing a message on the unconditional surrender of all German armies. The Czechs said advance American tank units were four miles from Prague.

60 Miles From Capital

Russian units had been reported 60 miles from the Czech capital. This was the disposition of the other German pockets as the Russians and the Western Allies began the final roundup.

Norway—German troops remained in their barracks, awaiting the Allied will, as British ships were reported steaming into Norwegian harbors.

Latvia—An estimated 300,000 Germans, Latvians and Russians of Quisling General Vlassov's army were pocketed by the Red army against the sea and on the Vistula estuary near Danzig, and were faced with surrender or annihilation.

Yugoslavia—the German radio at Flensburg said withdrawals from Yugoslavia continued as the Yugoslav radio announced the liberation of Ljubljana, capital of federal Slovenia.

Eastern Moravia and the adjacent areas—Fighting still was reported by the Germans as Russian armies began the mop-up.

The French ports—Isolated German forces in Dunkerque, La Rochelle, St. Nazaire, Bordeaux and Lorient were expected to lay down their arms.

The Channel Islands—German cut off hopelessly for months were reported ready to give up under unconditional surrender terms.

The Elmdorven radio said Allied armies were expected to arrive in Rotterdam, Amsterdam and the Hague today.

Oppose Russians
Despite Von Schoerner's capitulation, Nazis apparently still opposed the Russians in eastern Moravia and adjacent sectors. The German-controlled Flensburg radio said "our troops are fighting hard to save Germany from Bolshevism in the last few hours."

The broadcast said the Germans had failed to prevent Russian breakthroughs north of Olomouc (Olmuetz) but declared the Russians were stopped on a "new line."

The Germans admitted the forces were in flight westward in the hope of being captured by the Americans before the trap was snapped by the three Russian armies on their heels.

U-boats on the high seas were presumed to be returning to their bases after Doenitz' cease activity order. But Allied naval patrols were out and the Orkney islands fishermen continued their anti-submarine vigil.

Lisbon Girl Hit By Car
LISBON, May 8.—Mary Fawcett, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fawcett of Lisbon, was struck by an auto, driven by Paul Taylor, also of Lisbon, as she walked along the road to her home at 4 p. m. yesterday.

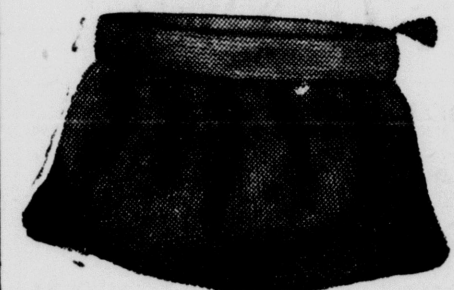

Taylor said he was watching an approaching bicyclist and did not see the girl. She suffered brain burns and a cracked rib.

Dairy Payments Being Made For First Quarter

Clifford F. Shaw, chairman of the Columbiana county AAA, announced today that the AAA is making payments on dairy production for the months of January, February and March at the rate of 70 cents per hundredweight on whole milk and 11 cents a pound on butterfat.

He emphasized that farmers must file applications no later than May 30 in order to be eligible for payment. To date 1,018 applications for payment based on dairy production in January, February and March have been received. One thousand three hundred and fifty applications were filed in the previous payment period.

BODY OF HITLER REPORTED FOUND

By NED NORDNESS

WITH THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY, May 8.—Col. Anatoly Pilugin, war correspondent of Tass, official Soviet news agency, has said a Russian general had stated that the body of a man identified as Adolf Hitler had been found in the ruins of Berlin.

The Russian general was not named.

During a meeting two days ago between Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky of the Second White Russian army, Russian officers asked Pilugin, who is attached to the British Second army as a war correspondent, whether the British believed Hitler was dead or alive.

Pilugin said he replied there was a mixed opinion, but that the Russian general, whose identity he did not disclose, stated that the Russians had found in Berlin the bullet-torn and battered body of a man identified as Hitler.

The War Today..

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

V-E DAY to the victorious Allies must be in its essence just a pause on the way to complete our task of crushing the forces of evil which Hitler let loose, when he started out to enslave the world.

We still have two Herculean tasks to perform—to do to Nazidom's Japanese ally what we've done to the Reich, and to impose on the Germans a punishment which will be just but which will be so stern that mankind never will forget it.

The war guilty—who run into thousands—should be given the limit of the law and without waste of time. We went no long drawn out public trials, but such expedient justice as military courts would give.

We should be allowing our passions to rule our minds if we placed the brand on the brow of every German. But we mustn't allow ourselves to be swayed by the soft-voiced words of repentance which now are being poured out by the surrendering Boche officials. It's only a matter of days since their harsh gutturals ceased driving their troops into battle. It's only a matter of days since we uncovered some of the most awful of the German atrocities—all set in motion by Hitler and his lieutenants.

We may be sure the Germans still are goose-stepping mentally. Did you ever see a force of Hitler's death's head guards goosestep? I have—and the awful finality of the crash of their hobnails on the pavement is something to remember. It means war.

The Japanese propagandists are trying to dissociate their country from the defeated Nazidom. They're looking forward to the day when they also will be making unconditional surrender, and they're trying to avoid trouble with Russia. The Japs say they never expected any help from Germany—but they lie for it was only when they felt sure Hitler was winning the European war hands down that they rushed in and stabbed Uncle Sam in the back. Nippon long has plotted this assault against the Western powers, so that she could rule the Orient.

The American-British partnership is losing no time in transferring striking-power from conquered Germany to the Pacific. Word that a great Allied fighting machine from Europe is beginning to roll out towards Japan will be glad news to the Yankee fighting men already there for they have had fears that the home-front might weaken when the European war was over and make a compromise peace with the Japs.

Our men in the Pacific, who have been experiencing the atrocities of the savages of the Rising Sun, don't want any compromise. They are determined to smash the Japanese.

As the Washington war office announced at the weekend, the United States is moving about 6,000,000 picked troops out to the Pacific. These will be in addition to several hundred thousand British and Australian forces already in action. There will be massed airforces—perhaps even greater than Europe has known—and a vast American-British naval fleet.

The way things look now it's a fair guess that within a few months we shall be invading the Japanese mainland—and that will be the wedge which will split the log in two. This will mean the greatest amphibious operation of history—an assault far exceeding in its intensity the D-day on the beaches of Normandy—but the Allied experts are sure it can be done. Meantime the Mikado's domain are going to be torn by a terrific air assault getting under way.

TWO AP MEN WIN PULITZER AWARDS

NEW YORK, May 8.—Two Associated Press staff members on war assignments have been awarded 1944 Pulitzer prize awards. Big, affable Harold V. (Hal) Boyle, AP war correspondent, won the Distinguished correspondence award of $500 for his day-by-day story during 1944 of the American foot soldier in the battle for Europe.

Joe Rosenthal, AP photographer, was honored for his inspiring picture of Marines raising the Stars and Stripes on Iwo Jima. The historic picture, taken for the War-time Still Picture pool, was made in 1945—technically too late for a 1944 prize—but exception was made for "this distinguished example," the announcement said.

The prize for the most distinguished novel of 1944 went to John Hersey for "A Bell For Adano," and Mary Chase's "Harvey" was cited as the best original American play.

ENEMY HOLDOUT GARRISON QUILTS; YANKS IN PRAGUE

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, May 8.—Nazi holdouts in Bohemia surrendered unconditionally today, the Czech-controlled Prague radio said, sounding on V-E day the death rattle of the once mighty army which set out almost six years ago to conquer the world.

Their capitulation saved them from swift punishment by Gen. George S. Patton's Third army, which had driven northeast from captured Pilsen to the outskirts of the Czech capital, and by three Russian armies driving toward the same goal from the north and east.

The patriot broadcast said Nazi Gen. Ferdinand Von Schoerner, commander in Bohemia and Moravia, signed unconditional surrender terms at 1:30 a. m. (battle-front time) and that units were to "cease fire" as soon as they received word of the capitulation. Earlier the partisans said U. S. staff officers had made contact with them, bringing a message on the unconditional surrender of all German armies. The Czechs said advance American tank units were four miles from Prague.

60 Miles From Capital
Russian units had been reported 60 miles from the Czech capital.

This was the disposition of the other German pockets as the Russians and the Western Allies began the final roundup.

Norway—German troops remained in their barracks, awaiting the Allied will, as British ships were reported steaming into Norwegian harbors.

Latvia—An estimated 300,000 Germans, Latvians and Russians of Quisling General Vlassov's army were pocketed by the Red army against the sea and on the Vistula estuary near Danzig, and were faced with surrender or annihilation.

Yugoslavia—the German radio at Flensburg said withdrawals from Yugoslavia continued as the Yugoslav radio announced the liberation of Ljubljana, capital of federal Slovenia.

Eastern Moravia and the adjacent areas—Fighting still was reported by the Germans as Russian armies began the mopup.

The French ports—Isolated German forces in Dunkerque, La Rochelle, St. Nazaire, Bordeaux and Lorient were expected to lay down their arms.

The Channel islands—German cut off hopelessly for months were reported ready to give up under unconditional surrender terms.

The Eindhoven radio said Allied armies were expected to arrive in Rotterdam, Amsterdam and the Hague today.

Oppose Russians
Despite Von Schoerner's capitulation, Nazis apparently still opposed the Russians in eastern Moravia and adjacent sectors.

The German-controlled Flensburg radio said "our troops are fighting hard to save Germany from Bolshevism in the last few hours."

The broadcast said the Germans had failed to prevent Russian breakthroughs north of Olomouc (Olmutz) but declared the Russians were stopped on a "new line."

The Germans admitted the forces were in flight westward in the hope of being captured by the Americans before the trap was snapped by the three Russian armies on their heels.

U-boats on the high seas were presumed to be returning to their bases after Doenitz' cease activity order. But Allied naval patrols were out and the Orkney islands fishermen continued their anti-submarine vigil.

Lisbon Girl Hit By Car
LISBON, May 8.—Mary Fawcett, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fawcett of Lisbon, was struck by an auto, driven by Paul Taylor, also of Lisbon, as she walked across the road to her home at 4 p. m. yesterday.

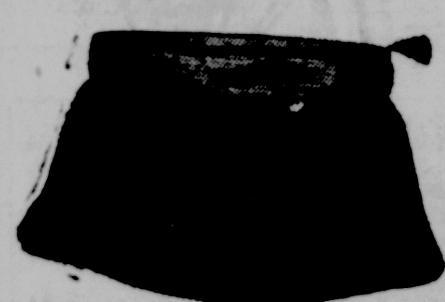

Taylor said he was watching an approaching bicyclist and did not see the girl. She suffered brain burns and a cracked rib.

Victory in Europe DAY

"MAN, AM I HAPPY! I know you are too, but don't take more than a half-day off to celebrate, for we've finished only half of the bloody fight. I don't expect to be shipped back home on the next boat! I've a hunch they're going to need me and a lot of my buddies over on the other side, so just you keep on passing the ammunition and buying the bonds to pay for all we're going to need. We'll do the rest. See you later, folks. I've still got work to do."
